

Thursday 23rd April

Morning everyone,

I am so pleased that when I have been calling this week, your parents have told me how well you have been getting on with your fractions work. I am proud of you all. Today we are learning more about fractions and using the BBC site for English too. Miss Daley has sent some Science work for you try also.

Maths

<https://whiterosemaths.com/homelearning/year-3/>

Today we are looking at Week 1 – lesson 3 – Tenths. This is to consolidate fractions can include  $\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{3}$ ,  $\frac{1}{5}$ ,  $\frac{1}{6}$ ,  $\frac{1}{10}$ . This also will give the children foundations for future learning with decimal numbers. Please watch the clip and complete the worksheet. For question 3 you could use Lego bricks to help you. The answer sheet is also on the website, so you can mark your work together.

Remember to chant your times tables when you can as this will help you with all areas of maths in the future.

English

So far this week we have learnt different types of nouns and pronouns. Today we are using adjectives, which describe nouns. There are hundreds of possible adjectives you can use to describe nouns. Some adjectives are wow and exciting, but some are dull and babyish. Which ones do you think I want you to use?

Challenge - how many adjectives can you write to describe your bed?

Click the link below to find the clips and suggested worksheets on adjectives.

Science - Forces

- What examples of pushes and pulls can you find in your house?
- If possible, use a magnet (fridge magnet will work) to sort different items around your home into 'Magnetic' and 'Non-magnetic'.
Have any results surprised you?

Other activities:

- How many clocks can you find at home? Are they all digital or do you have an analogue one? (analogue means the clock has a face and moving hands like the one in the classroom). If you cannot tell the time yet, maybe someone at home could teach you.
- Plan some lunch time meal ideas for my children – I am getting stuck what to feed them! Tell me your ideas when I call you.
- Tidy your bedroom.

Speak soon,

Mrs C Flynn
