

Monday 11th May

Morning Everyone,

I hope you had a good, long weekend and managed to watch some of the celebrations for VE day on Friday. This weekend I have done a lot of gardening as the weather was so nice. My body is really achy so I might need to watch Joe Wicks today and join back in tomorrow! I spotted so many birds in the sky and squirrels in the trees, and there was a fox on the lawn in my neighbour's garden. Whilst out shopping, I saw Tommy and he was going to do some baking. Hope it went well. Has anyone else done some baking or cooking recently? I'd love to know what you have made – let me know when I call.

English

Below is the link to the BBC website to find a reading lesson. The story is called Dindy and the Elephant. I hope you like it.

Maths

Follow the link below to find today's lesson on multiplying and dividing by 3. We did work on this together in school, but now you are home it is a great time to practice those times-tables. Remember you can always go to TTRS to practise too.

I will be making my calls again this week, so I look forward to speaking to you all soon.
