

Wednesday 24th June

Morning everyone,

It is going to be another hot, hot, hot day – keep drinking your water and keep cool. You should also receive the topic and Science work today for this week. In Geography the learning is about volcanoes – what can you remember from when we made our volcanoes? I remember the boys painting the filing cabinet blue, and the chairs and CARPET brown!!!! I also remember how fun (and smelly!) it was when we got to erupt the volcanoes.

English

The English lesson today is exploring our reading skills. When you are reading, it is not just about saying the words on the page, you must understand what is said and what is implied. Follow the link to find the learning for today.

Maths

Today our learning is on turns and angles. Before you click the link – I want you to learn the meanings of these words. Discuss them with your grown-up and look them up on Google if you need to.

1. vertical
2. horizontal
3. diagonal
4. right angle
5. parallel
6. perpendicular

Then follow the link to watch the learning clips and to go on a right-angle hunt in your house.
