

Monday 29th June

Morning all. I hope you all had a lovely weekend. The weather was very strange: boiling hot one minute then raining the next!

English

Today we are learning about different characters in stories. All stories have characters in. I think having some characters like us make good stories, but I also like reading stories with characters that are very different to me. Follow the link below to find the learning clips. Some of the activities are based on Matilda. I really enjoyed reading that with you all. I will have to select a new class book for us to read together soon.

Maths

We are continuing our learning on shapes and lines and our focus today is parallel and perpendicular lines. We used those words last week. There are several suggested activities on the BBC Bitesize page. Remember you do not need to print sheets off, you can write the answers down. If you have run out of space in your book, you can contact the school office to collect another one.

Other activity ideas

- This link is to a BBC page all about constructing a Marble Run. Have you ever done this? It is good fun. We have a marble run set at home and you can make a different run each time. You do not need a special set though, you could make your own out of things you have at home.

Well done.
